Life is literally awesome. The most important elements for life are available in nature in abundance and free. Air we breathe in, Water we drink, and Earth we use for shelter are all free. Sun gives us free light and heat, and we can eat various Organisms to survive.

Life could have run aimlessly just for survival like that indefinitely. However, man invented Money, which was such a source of Motivation that changed the whole game of life. Then we had to buy Everything that started with an E, thus completing the equation.

Nevertheless, at the end, through death, we have to Exit to the unknown with empty hands. So, the question really is not how much money you make or how much power you have. Life really is about how you enjoy being alive, and what you want to leave behind in this boundless universe as your contribution.
